Finding Aid completed on October 15, 1981, by Jesse R. Lankford, Jr.

Physical Description: 370 prints on 119 photograph album pages; 186 prints; 439 negatives*; 2 handwritten location guides; 1 photographic price list from North Studio, North, S.C.; 1 book: The John Randle Jordan/Fannie Lillian Viverette Family, by Luther J. Jordan.

*Note: Negatives are on a cellulose nitrate base and will require further attention.

Acquisition: This collection of photographs was donated to the North Carolina State Archives on August 25, 2000 by Fran Wagner, 4400 Boxwood Rd., Raleigh, N.C., 787-2024 and accessioned on August 28, 2000. It was an addition to the Luther J. Jordan Photograph Collection (Photo Coll. 17), which was accessioned on July 28, 1980.

Description: The photographs in this collection were taken by Luther J. Jordan during his work with the Works Progress Administration in the 1930's. The largest group of materials depicts the construction of an office building, warehouse, garage, culvert, and service station for the Standard Oil Co. of N.J. in Columbia, S.C. The rest of the photographs cover various sites in North and South Carolina. Projects documented include the construction of sewers, filter plants, pump houses, tanks, dams, spillways, subsidence basins, reservoirs, highways and roads, curbs and gutters, municipal buildings, and schools. Additional work was done on site at the Fort Mill Mfg. Co., Lancaster Cotton Mills, Kershaw Cotton Mills, and Charlotte Airport, as well as various U.S. Coast Guard sites, including their lighthouses. The remaining photographs are images of Luther J. Jordan and his wife, Lula.

Arrangement: Box 17.2.1 contains the pages of an album, which, due to preservation concerns, is now disbound and housed in individual folders. These pages are arranged numerically. It also contains 3 larger photographs of Luther J. Jordan and the remaining non-photographic materials. Box 17.2.2 holds all of the individual negatives and prints.

The first group in box 17.2.2, "Negatives for Prints in Photograph Album," contains the negatives that correspond to the individual pages of the photograph album. The negatives follow the numerical order of the photograph album. However, not all of the images in the album have corresponding negatives and several of these negatives do not match images in the album.

The second group, "Unidentified Negatives & Photographs," consists of images that could not be sufficiently identified. These materials are arranged by Luther Jordan's own numbering scheme. While images grouped together under the same number may not be of the same site, they do chronologically proceed the images in the set with the next highest number, i.e. the images in set 2 come before set 5. The prints which are both unnumbered and unidentified are arranged alphabetically by subject, i.e. dam, sewer, etc.

The final group, "Personal Photographs," is arranged chronologically.
